DETAILED ACTION

Specification

The amendment to the specification filed on Oct. 5, 2005 does not comply with the requirements of 37 CFR 1.121 because it does not include markings.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 10,15-19,24-28,30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over US 4955148 (Padilla).

Padilla teaches the combination of a high-heeled shoe (see col. 1, lines 12-25) and a footbed (foot support assembly) as claimed, see the marked-up figures below. The foot support provides proper fitting within a give shoe style, see col. 2, lines 5+.

Padilla doesn't show the high-heeled shoe (otherwise known as pump shoes) but it is well known in the art for them to have an upper, a toe box and a heel having a height of at least 1 inch, and some being more than 3 inches. To the extent that Padilla doesn't teach a high-heeled shoe as claimed, the examiner takes official notice that high-heeled shoes having a toe box and heels of such height are well known and conventional in the art. Therefore, it would have been obvious to provide the shoe of Padilla with a high-heeled shoe, to provide proper support and balance to high-heeled shoes.

4. Claims 11, 13, 14 and 20-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Padilla as applied to claims 10 and 19, respectively above, and further in view of either US 5675914 (Cintron) and/or US 2408792 (Margolin).

Both Cintron and Margolin teach shoe supports having cavities/grooves on the underside to provide proper ventilation to the shoe. It would have been obvious to provide the support as taught above with cavities/grooves on the underside, as taught by either Cintron and/or Margolin, to provide proper ventilation.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 12 and 29 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed Oct. 5, 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues that his shoe is somewhat narrower than conventional and extends farther forward on the inside than is usual. In addition the shoe is wider than usual in the toe portion.

In response, the art rejection applied above has all the structure as claimed. The shoe has a cradle-like configuration and would inherently perform the characteristics as claimed. A wearer's foot that fits snugly in the shoe would have a cradle-like function and not slide forward in the shoe as claimed.

Conclusion

7. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.

Conclusion

8. Applicant is duly reminded that a complete response must satisfy the requirements of 37 C.F. R. 1.111, including:

-“The reply must present arguments pointing out the specific distinctions believed to render the claims, including any newly presented claims, patentable over any applied references.”

--“A general allegation that the claims define a patentable invention without specifically pointing out how the language of the claims patentably distinguishes them from the references does not comply with the requirements of this section.”

-Moreover, “The prompt development of a clear issue requires that the replies of the applicant meet the objections to and rejections of the claims. Applicant should also specifically point out the support for any amendments made to the disclosure. See MPEP 2163.06” MPEP 714.02. The “disclosure” includes the claims, the specification and the drawings.
